architectural competition

April 2009

The Museum of Polish History announced an international architectural competition for a design of the Museum of Polish History in Warsaw, under the auspices of the International Union of Architects (UIA).

Over 300 entries from all over the World were submitted.

Jury decision in December 2009.

Polish History Museum aims are

To foster interest in the historical heritage

To promote Polish democratic traditions and Poland's link to European heritage

To show that history and heritage is something living, which is being reinterpreted and re-thought again and again

To encourage debate on history, collective memory and heritage

To attract young audiences - especially students

To make heritage more attractive for the media

Zjazd w Kwedlinburgu 0986-04-04

Chociaż Mieszko I uznał zwierzchnictwo Ottona I, niemieckiego cesarza, jeszcze w roku 963, historia Polski i Niemiec była pełna zwrotów, a zwierzchnictwo nie miało ścisłego charakteru. W roku 986 w Quedlinburgu książę Polan postanowił po raz kolejny podporządkować się cesarzowi, tym razem Ottonowi III. Mieszko I - Jan Matejko, "Poczet królów i książąt polskich", 1890-1892, Muzeum Narodowe we Wrocławiu (Mariusz Trąba, Lech Bielski, "Jacy byli i jak żyli władcy i królowie Polski. Poczet inny niż wszystkie", Warszawa 2005, s. (...))
