NGO Support Centre – Press and Communications Officer – Nicosia

Established in 1999, the NGO Support Centre of Cyprus is a non-governmental, non-for-profit organisation with a vision of supporting the development of emerging civil society in Cyprus and internationally, and provide resources to organisations so that they can, in turn take their role as full partners in the socio-economic development of their society. Its main objectives are to help Cypriot NGOs build their capacities, and to work with organisations in neighbouring and developing countries for mutual benefit.

I have studied Journalism, Film and Media at Cardiff University, Wales, UK and subsequently acquired an MA in Diplomacy at Nottingham University. I have worked as a journalist for the two biggest in circulation national daily newspapers of Cyprus, "Politis" and "Phileleftheros". My main responsibility was covering current affairs, sports, municipal stories and have also done investigative stories. For the last year and a half I am actively involved in the Civil Society of Cyprus, while working at the NGO Support Centre, holding the position of the Press and Communications Officer of the Organisation. My duties include dissemination and promotion of the work of the Centre and the Civil Society of Cyprus as a whole and publishing articles and doing interviews with local activists for newspapers "Alithia" and "Politis", and for the radio station "Astra 92,8".

We are interested in giving people a chance to publish their work who might have been refused by other publishing houses and the like. Wbscp is interested in getting ourselves more sensible for (hidden) racism in sport and connect to people, who need to have their message related to sports and other, their endeavour, published (SC) me how, somewhere. We are not limited to literature, by the way. We are open for quite a lot of ways to express oneself. be it via radio, tv etc. We are still new-comers, so to speak. in the field of publishing and we are independent. We like the cause: against racism and this is why we apply here!

Well, Alexander Heck is my name. Born 1957 in Germany - former West Germany. Have gone to school until I was 17. Travelled and worked for 6 years after school in the Near East. Went at the same time through an extra formation at night to become a journalist (1996) Ever since I write, preferably in my blog (www.zypernundmehr.wordpress.com former <http://kleinasien.blog.de>). I provide colleagues with material. Mostly about the Near East. Cyprus. North Africa and Turkey - read, correct, accompany researchers. I even underwent a formation in Anti-violence-communication. when I made for the period of 8 months sociological research about the social structure of Neukölln - Berlin and the manifold problems that occur because of it. Of course, racism and the lot plays a central role in such a research. I therefore became an employee (streetworker) of Lebenswelt Organisation, which is one of the biggest in Berlin and most likely best staffed, who sends streetworkers into families, who have problems with the system. Her own personal experience has proven that people must never give up their goals and should always try harder to reach their objectives despite all the difficulties and obstacles that may exist. Carolina is not only a talented girl and a great athlete. She is a young person who struggled against her low-vision problem, by absorbing strength and energy from her own personal goal and she managed to fulfill her dream of winning an Olympic Medal in the sport she loves. SIMOPOULOS Michalis

CCMC – Project Coordinator – Nicosia

The Cyprus Community Media Centre (CCMC) opened its doors in late 2009, aiming to establish community media in Cyprus and support local organisations and community groups in communicating their message to a wider audience. It does this in many different ways, whether it's training, dedicated support, equipment loan, creating videos, taking photographs, holding public events, setting up online forums or even just being on the end of the phone, offering advice to its members. Through its work, CCMC strives to be diverse, inclusive, collaborative, transparent, equitable and nonpartisan, promoting the benefits of community-based media to as wide an audience as possible and giving people the skills to be in control of their own messages. It also wants to help bridge gaps and enhance relationships between the mass media and civil society through the creation and broadcasting of productions that contribute to multiculturalism and diversity. CCMC is made up of a core team of six staff members who work at the centre in Nicosia, Cyprus. With a background in media, communications, journalism, community based approaches, the team is also fully equipped with the equipment it needs to produce multimedia content. We also work with a group of talented creatives, whom we call our 'mediamakers'. They are filmmakers, photographers, sound engineers, graphic designers, viral marketers, editors and writers, who assist us in our productions and training. A management committee comprised of elected representatives from CCMC's members, provides the team with strategic direction, advice and support in achieving its aims.

Michalis Simopoulos is Project Coordinator of the Collaborative Media Initiative at the Cyprus Community Media Centre. He holds a BA in History and Politics from the University of Nottingham, and an MSc in International Relations from the London School of Economics. He previously held the position of Press Officer at the Cyprus High Commission in London, and has worked in research on public policy issues with INDEX Research and Dialogue (Cyprus), and transitional justice and reconciliation at International Conflict Research (Northern Ireland).

TOTORO Willy

ARRC – President – Nicosia

Being victims of racism and discrimination on high level in Cyprus, immigrants and refugees in Cyprus took the decision to fight for themselves by themselves by focusing on access to information and media and more other fields where discrimination and racism is been shown. For more than 3 years now the organization is established and is using its members who have experience in media. The principal objective is to fight against racism and discrimination towards immigrants in Cyprus.

I finished my studies and got my degree in multimedia and have experience, working in that field since then. At the same time, I lead our organization, ARRC (Association of Recognized Refugees in Cyprus) in which I bring my contribution to fight against racism and discrimination. Cyprus where we live is a place where racism and discrimination have a very high position in every situation and especially in media. Being a board member of ENAR, European Network Against Racism, I got a lot of experience on fighting against racism and I participated in many trainings and seminars in different European countries which gave me a chance to learn more.
