2. Summary

Our story starts in Helsinki, Finland, where a new wooden chapel has opened up for everybody in the midst of the central shopping area. We discuss the new modern diverse world with the pastor there and a researcher at Åbo Akademi university, in Turku. Our story continues to the problems that the churches are facing, often due to diversity-related issues. We discuss the problems within the Catholic church in Portugal with a researcher from a catholic movement that wants to reform the church from the inside, lobbying the Vatican and the media for the ordination of women priests. We get a comment from the Portuguese high commissioner for immigration and intercultural dialogue. We meet activists in Finland that want to get people to resign the church through a very successful webpage and we discuss all these problems with two bishops from the two different churches. The story ends with the young radical church worker from Finland. The aim is to bring together the most important ideas that we have learnt from our interviews in these two different countries. We also want to give the audience a sensorial experience by using sounds from the ceremonies that we have experienced. We are confident that this program will work as a discussion opener in many different forums.

3. Dissemination of the Output

Our stories were broadcasted on public radio stations in Finland and Portugal. In Finland one story was broadcasted 2.5 and 4.5 as a part of a 1 hour long discussion programme at radio Vega/ YLE Swedish speaking national radio station. Also the story with some pictures was on the website of radio Vega. In Portugal it will be broadcasted in Antena1, Portuguese Public Radio, as a 25 min radio documentary on June, 2.
