How to Support School Leadership for Equity and Learning

European workshop, 6-10 October 2014, Riga, Latvia

Working language: English

Target group: school heads, deputy heads

Currently in most European countries school leaders have little opportunities to participate in pre-service and CPD programs and other capacity building activities aimed at enhancing their knowledge and skills on how to deal with everyday challenges related to equity and learning, and how to plan and implement strategies at school and local level in order to target inequalities in access, opportunities, and learning outcomes. To promote equity and learning school leaders have to enter into dialogue with all school stakeholders, such as teachers, students and community members. School leaders need to be supported in this process and equipped with the knowledge and skills to be able to tackle inequalities and resistance they may face in their school community.

The workshop intends to:

- contribute to establishment of shared understanding regarding equity and learning;
- exchange experience and good practices;
- help school leaders to reflect on their everyday practice in dealing with equity issues and identify areas for further improvement;
- explore the opportunities for the development and professional support of school leaders

Deadline for application: 15 June 2014
