

Mr Davor Derencinovic is a Croatian national. He graduated from Zagreb university with a Master of Laws Degree in Criminal Law. He also completed post-doctoral research in International Terrorism, Organised Crime and Human Rights at the International Human Rights Law Institute of DePaul University (Chicago, United States of America) and holds a PhD in criminal law sciences.

His work experience has progressively developed in the academic field, where he started as teaching assistant in Criminal Law and Criminology at the Faculty of Law, Zagreb University and eventually becoming assistant professor in Criminal Law and Criminology.

Currently Mr Derencinovic holds the position of professor in Criminal Law and Criminology teaching at graduate and postgraduate levels. He inter alia participates in drafting various laws concerning the prevention and suppression of organised crime and trafficking in human beings. Mr Derencinovic is also Secretary General of the Croatian Academy of Legal Sciences (an academic NGO) and President of the Croatian Association for Criminal Law and Practice. He is a member of the Court of Honour of the Society of University Teachers and other Scholars and a National consultant of United Nations Office for Drugs and Crime.