A Introduction

1. The Council of Europe has set up various follow-up mechanisms to international legal instruments, mostly conventions, which differ in type, legal nature and functioning, but have a common aim, i.e. to ensure the proper implementation by States of these instruments.
2. The most well known and important of these follow-up mechanisms is the European Court of Human Rights set up under the European Convention on Human rights (as amended by Protocol No. 11).
3. Numerous other Council of Europe conventions establish committees which meet regularly to exchange views on, and assess the application of, these conventions (see, for instance, the Criminal Law and Civil Law Conventions on Corruption [ETS 173 and 174], the Convention on Cybercrime [ETS 185], the Council of Europe Convention on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings [CETS 197], and the Convention on the Prevention of Terrorism [CETS 196]).
4. In addition to the above, a number of other effective monitoring or follow-up mechanisms have been set up within the Council of Europe. The descriptions below outline how some of these monitoring mechanisms function.

B The European Convention for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment [ETS N°126 –Stra sbourg, 26.11.1987]

5. The Convention, which came into force on 1 February 1989, provides for the setting up of a committee, the European Committee for the Prevention of Torture and Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment (CPT). "The Committee [CPT] shall, by means of visits, examine the treatment of persons deprived of their liberty with a view to strengthening, if necessary, the protection of such persons from torture and from inhuman or degrading treatment or punishment."
6. The CPT's Members are independent and impartial experts from a variety of backgrounds, including lawyers, medical doctors and specialists in prison or police matters. They are elected for a four-year term by the Committee of Ministers, the Council of Europe's decision-making body, and can be re-elected twice. One Member is elected in respect of each contracting state.
7. The CPT visits places of detention (e.g. prisons and juvenile detention centres, police stations, holding centres for immigration detainees and psychiatric hospitals) to see how persons deprived of their liberty are treated and, if necessary, to recommend improvements to States.
8. CPT delegations visit contracting States periodically but may organise additional "ad hoc" visits if necessary. The Committee must notify the State concerned about the on-site visit but need not specify the period between the notification and the actual visit.
9. The recommendations which the CPT may formulate on the basis of facts found during the visit are included in a report which is sent to the State concerned and is the starting point for an ongoing dialogue. The reports are strictly confidential unless a State authorises its publication.

C European Social Charter [ETS No. 035 – Turin, 18.10.1961] and Revised European Social Charter [ETS No.163 –Strasbourg, 03.05.1996]

10. The European Social Charter is a treaty that protects fundamental social rights and freedoms and establishes a supervisory mechanism guaranteeing their respect by the States parties. The Revised European Social Charter entered in force in 1998 and it is replacing the 1961 European Social Charter at a steady pace.
11. The European Committee of Social Rights is the body in charge of ascertaining whether countries have honoured the undertakings set out in the Charter. Its 13 independent, impartial Members are elected by the Committee of Ministers for a period of six years, renewable once. The Committee determines whether or not national law and practice in the States parties are in conformity with the Charter (Article 24 of the Charter, as amended by the 1991 Turin Protocol).
12. The control of conformity may occur through two different types of procedures:
 - a) A monitoring procedure based on national reports.
13. Every year the States parties submit a report indicating how they implement the Charter in law and in practice. The Committee examines the reports and decides whether or not the situations in the countries concerned are in conformity with the Charter. Its decisions, known as “conclusions”, are published every year.
 - b) A collective complaints procedure
14. Under a protocol opened for signature in 1995, which came into force in 1998, collective complaints of violations of the Charter may be lodged with the European Committee of Social Rights. The complaint is directed against one of the state parties that have ratified the protocol and concerns one or more provisions of the Charter.
15. The Committee examines the complaint and, if the formal requirements have been met, declares it admissible and a written procedure is set in motion, with an exchange of memorials between the parties.
16. The Committee then takes a decision on the merits of the complaint, which it forwards to the parties concerned and the Committee of Ministers in a report, which is made public within four months of its being forwarded.
17. Finally, the Committee of Ministers adopts a resolution. If appropriate, it may recommend that the state concerned take specific measures to bring the situation into line with the Charter.

D The Group of States against Corruption (GRECO)

18. The Group of States against corruption (GRECO), is an Enlarged Partial Agreement of the Council of Europe set up in 1999. Member States of the Council of Europe, non-Member States and the European Community may participate in GRECO on an equal footing.
19. The aim of GRECO is to improve the capacity of its Members to fight corruption by following up, through a dynamic process of mutual evaluation and peer pressure, compliance with their undertakings in this field.

20. GRECO carries out evaluation procedures, which are divided into rounds, in respect of each of its Members. GRECO adopts a questionnaire for each evaluation round addressed to all the Members concerned. GRECO appoints different evaluation teams to evaluate each Member by carrying out an on-site evaluation visit. The evaluation teams are composed of experts appointed by the State parties to GRECO.
21. The team prepares a preliminary draft report assessing the state of the law and the practice in relation to the provisions selected for the evaluation round. The draft report is submitted to GRECO for discussion and adoption. The report contains recommendations addressed to the Member to improve its domestic laws and practices. GRECO invites the Member to report on the measures taken in order to comply with these recommendations.

E The Convention on Cybercrime [ETS N°185 - Strasbo urg, 08.11.2001]

22. The Convention on Cybercrime is the first international treaty on crimes committed via the Internet and other computer networks, dealing particularly with infringements of copyright, computer-related fraud, child pornography and violations of network security. Its main objective is to pursue a common criminal policy aimed at the protection of society against cybercrime, especially by adopting appropriate legislation and fostering international co-operation. The Convention entered into force on 1 July 2004.
23. Article 46 of the Convention creates a framework for the parties to consult regarding implementation of the Convention, the effect of significant legal, policy or technological developments pertaining to the subject of computer or computer related crime and the collection of evidence in electronic form, and the possibility of supplementing or amending the Convention.
24. The procedure is flexible and it is left to the parties to decide how and when to convene if they so wish. The Cybercrime Convention Committee (T-CY) met for the first time in Strasbourg in March 2006.

F Council of Europe Convention on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings [CETS N°197 – Strasbourg, 03.05.05]

25. The Council of Europe Convention on Action against Trafficking in Human Beings mainly focuses on the protection of victims of trafficking and the safeguarding of their rights. It aims at preventing trafficking as well as prosecuting traffickers.
26. The Convention provides for the setting up of an independent monitoring mechanism guaranteeing parties' compliance with its provisions. It has two pillars:
 - a) the Group of Experts against Trafficking in Human Beings (GRETA)
27. GRETA is in charge of monitoring the implementation of the Convention. It should have a minimum of 10 and a maximum of 15 Members among nationals of States parties to the Convention. It is a technical body composed of independent and highly qualified experts in the area of human rights, assistance and protection to victims, with the task of adopting a report and conclusions on each party's implementation of the Convention.

b) the Committee of the Parties

28. The Committee of the Parties, a political body, is composed of representatives in the Committee of Ministers of the parties to the Convention and of representatives of parties non-Members of the Council of Europe.
29. Article 38 of the Convention details the functioning of the monitoring procedure and the interaction between GRETA and the Committee of the Parties. The evaluation procedure will be divided into rounds. At the beginning of each round GRETA will autonomously define the provisions to be monitored and determine the most appropriate means to carry out the evaluation. This is likely to commence by requesting the Parties to complete a questionnaire which could then be followed up with additional requests for information. If GRETA considers it necessary it may also request information from civil society and/or organise country visits in order to obtain more information.
30. When GRETA has received all the necessary information it will prepare its draft report which will be sent to the Party concerned for comments. When the comments have been received GRETA will prepare its final report and conclusions which will be sent at the same time to the Party concerned and the Committee of the Parties. GRETA's final report together with the Party's comments will be made public and is not subject to modification by the Committee of the Parties.
31. The Committee of the Parties may adopt recommendations indicating the measures to be taken by the Party concerned to implement GRETA's conclusions, if necessary setting a date for submitting information on their implementation, and promoting cooperation to ensure the proper implementation of the Convention.

G The Convention on the Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse

32. In July 2007, the Council of Europe adopted the Convention on the Protection of Children against Sexual Exploitation and Sexual Abuse. This instrument is the first to establish the various forms of sexual abuse of children as criminal offences, including such abuse committed in the home or the family.
33. The monitoring system foreseen by the Convention is based essentially on a body, the Committee of the Parties, composed of representatives of the Parties to the Convention, including representatives of Parties that may accede to the Convention under Articles 45 and 46.
34. The Committee of the Parties is destined to serve as a centre for the collection, analysis and sharing of information, experiences and good practice between States to improve their policies for preventing and combating sexual exploitation and abuse of children. With respect to the Convention, the Committee of the Parties shall monitor the implementation of the Convention and:
 - a. plays a role in the effective implementation of the Convention, by making proposals to facilitate or improve the effective use and implementation of the Convention, including the identification of any problems and the effects of any declarations made under the Convention;

- b. plays a general advisory role in respect of the Convention by expressing an opinion on any question concerning the application of the Convention;
- c. serves as a clearing house and facilitates the exchange of information on significant legal, policy or technological developments in relation to the application of the provisions of the Convention.

H The Commissioner for Human Rights

35. The Commissioner for Human Rights is an independent institution within the Council of Europe, mandated to promote the awareness of and respect for human rights in the 46 Council of Europe Member States.
36. The initiative for setting up the institution was taken by the Council of Europe's Heads of State and Government at their Second Summit in Strasbourg in October 1997. On 7 May 1999, the Committee of Ministers adopted a resolution which instituted the Office of the Commissioner and elaborated the Commissioner's mandate.
37. The fundamental objectives of the Commissioner for Human Rights are laid out in Resolution (99) 50 on the Council of Europe Commissioner for Human Rights:
 - To foster the effective observance of human rights, and assist Member States in the implementation of Council of Europe human rights standards;
 - To promote education in and awareness of human rights in Council of Europe Member States;
 - To identify possible shortcomings in the law and practice concerning human rights;
 - To facilitate the activities of national ombudsperson institutions and other human rights structures; and
 - To provide advice and information regarding the protection of human rights across the region.
38. The Commissioner's Office cannot act upon individual complaints, but the Commissioner can draw conclusions and take wider initiatives on the basis of reliable information regarding human rights violations suffered by individuals.
39. The Commissioner seeks to engage in permanent dialogue with Council of Europe Member States and conducts official country missions for a comprehensive evaluation of the human rights situation.
40. The Commissioner's reports contain both an analysis of human rights practices and detailed recommendations about possible ways of improvement. The reports are presented to the Committee of Ministers and the Parliamentary Assembly. Subsequently they are published and widely circulated in the policy-making and NGO community as well as the media.
41. A few years after the official visit to a country, the Commissioner or his Office carries out a follow-up visit to assess the progress made in implementing the recommendations. The Commissioner issues a follow-up report, which is also widely publicised.
42. When the Commissioner considers it appropriate, his Office issues recommendations regarding a specific human rights issue in a single Member state (or several).

43. The Commissioner is further mandated to promote awareness of human rights in Council of Europe Member States. To this end, the Commissioner's Office organises and co-organises seminars and events on various human rights themes, and seeks to engage in permanent dialogue with governments, civil society organisations and educational institutions in order to improve the public's awareness of Council of Europe human rights standards.
