On 29 March 2021, journalist Morgan Large discovered that her car had been sabotaged, two bolts being removed from a wheel. Large works for the bilingual French-Breton Radio Kreiz Breizh and is known for her investigations into the agriculture sector in the Brittany region. The sabotage of her car parked close to her house is the latest act of intimidation against her and her family, adding to the long list of threats she was subjected to because of her work. Last November, the doors of the Radio Kreiz Breizh premises were broken without any evidence of intrusion after the broadcast of a documentary in which Large was interviewed. Last January, her dog was poisoned. Anonymous phone calls at night and threatening messages sent to her and Radio Kreiz Breizh were also reported to the police.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

- Statement by Reporters without borders: "Une journaliste enquêtant sur l'agro-industrie en Bretagne victime d'un acte de malveillance"
- Statement by the Syndicat National des Journalistes: "Faisons bloc pour soutenir la journaliste bretonne Morgan Large, menacée jusqu'à son domicile"
- EFJ statement: "France: Journalist's car sabotaged"

STATE REPLIES

- 29 Jul 2021 | Reply of the French authorities
- Letter from the French Permanent Representation to the Council of Europe