

There is no training institution or formal training structure. However, the judicial and law enforcement agencies in Iceland, as well as the Administrative Council of District Courts regularly organize courses and seminars for these professionals.